

DoD CIO Team Finalist

July 22, 2005

Each year, the Chief Information Officer's Council awards several individual leadership awards and one team award as recognition in their information technology work to support Clinger Cohen. Executive level CIOs from all over the DoD and the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) are members of the Council who determines the award winners. Finalists are selected in July and the awards are announced and presented in September.

The Enterprise Architecture Division (J86) at USSTRATCOM has been chosen as one of the five finalists for the DoD CIO Team Award. Marshall Noker, CSSS.NET employee, is one of the members of this division. This is the third consecutive year that USSTRATCOM has been nominated as a finalist.
